AMUSEMENTS. Grand-"Thoroughbred."

An inoffensive comedy called "Thoroughbred," by Ralph Lumley, occupied the attention of a fair-sized crowd at the Grand last night and on several occasions threatened to become very funny. It is filled with trivial incidents continually promising to develop into something really comical. It would make a lively one-act farce, but suffers somewhat when separated into three acts and no cenimatograph views or living pictures to relieve the waits between the curtains

Charles Frohman has sent out a talented com pany of clever actors with "Thoroughbred," nearly every member being of the sort that strike one as having individual merit. There's the wonderfully versatile Seabrooke assuming a character beset with as many hardships as a young actor to stir up enthusiasm in these piping campaign times and Seabrooke several times last night made the audience entirely forget politics and enjoy a hearty roar of laughter. On one occasion he formed a conspiracy with gaminfaced Charley Butler and William Norris. They gave a burlesque of a minstrel act, singing ridiculous songs and introducing a few old "essence," steps. One expected they would wind up sence" steps. One expected they would wind up with a giec club selection, but it was not forthcoming. Davenport, who gave a faithful impersonation of the stage American last night, brought down the gallery once when he mentioned the stars and stripes, although it is yet a week before Mark Hanna day comes. He also makes love while mixing a salad a la Taffy in the late lamented "Triby." There are several pairs of lovers in the play who expose their private affairs to the prosy delight of those who enjoy that sort of amusement. Mr. Murphy's songs, dances and Irish witticisms form a bright part of the second act. The pickaninny band is seen in its liveliest dances and its other characteristic features. The colored youngsters are clever and amusing. 'O'Dowd's Neighbors' will be seen amusing. "O'Dowd's Neighbors" will be seen to-day and to-morrow. Notes of the Stage. The great Studebaker Bullding, on Michigan avenue in Chicago, next to the Auditorium Building, may be converted into a theater. Mr. W. F. Studebaker had a conference with Al Hayman and Charles Frohman at Chicago last week and the matter was thoroughly discussed. Close of the Union Generals' Campaigning Tour-"Coin" Harvey Assailed by Corporal Tanner.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 22.-The News and Observer has received the following dispatch from Roxboro, N. C., which was evilently written by a rank partisan;

There was a serious riot in Pierson county to-day. The county candidates spoke at Winstead. After conservative speeches made by R. B. Boone, of Durham, and Col. John S. Cunningham, of Pierson, S. P. Satterfield, Republican candidate for the House, made an incendiary speech to the negroes, and caused them to attack a white man, and as he was defending himself from their vile epithets they began to strike him with sticks. A general riot ensued between several hundred whites and colored, which composed the crowd. The entire difficulty was brought on by the inflamed minds of the negroes, resulting from the speech of Satterfield. A number were badly wounded and blood flowed freely. Several white men were struck by rocks thrown by negroes and three seriously hurt. Some one fired a pistol, whereupon the negroes fled. The whites were not expecting any difficulty, but were informed this evening that the arrangement was made at Roxboro last night to bring about the difficulty by the negroes. From what can be learned a great many negroes were inhusband in house-cleaning days. Seabrooke al- jured. ## CONCERNING COERCION.

Chairman Hanna Takes Note of Pop-

the Republican national committee, has given to the press the following announcement:

"The manifest policy of the silver Demo-cratic managers in this campaign, as set forth by their candidate for President shortly after his nomination, has been to create the belief in the minds of the workingmen that they were being coerced by their employers to vote contrary to their convictions. The chairman of the national committee, James K. Jones has emphasized this policy in a proclamation in which he boldly charges the employing classes of the country with having entered into spiracy to coerce their employes into voting contrary to their opinions.

This is a very grave charge, and it has now assumed a form that justifies giving it some attention. To coerce a voter is a crime gasinst the laws of the land, and if Messrs. Bryan and Jones know of coercion they make themselves accomplices of the criminals by not informing the proper authorities and taking steps for prosecution. While we consider the charge absurd, and believe that American workingmen and employers are too independent and patriotic either to be coerced or to coerce, the Rething in its power to protect workingmen in the free and untrammeled exercise of their rights as citizens, and will cheerfully unite with the national Democraite com-mittee in any movement having that object

Coercion of voters is not only an un-American, unpatriotic and despotic usurpation of the rights of a free citizen, but it is a wrong that will inevitably recoil upon its perpetrators. It is an arbitrary use of power that is in direct conflict with the principles of our government. The civil principles of our government. NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 22.—One of the most novel developments of the campaign is the action of Mr. A. B. Griffin, the independent had carried Bernhardt and Irving. The Coquelin-Hading engagement was unsuccessful, the Rejance engagement was unsuccessful, and $40.000 were lost in the Mounet-Sully engagement. The German opera scason at the Metropolitan was an expinsive venture. There was something mass-nificent about Abbey. He paid unheard-of salaties. He assembled famous artists together in one organization wholly regardless of expense. Nothing was too good for the public, nothing could be too complete for an enterprise bearing his name. He spent $40,000 in producing "Antony and Cleopatra" for Mrs. Potter and Kyrle Bellew. He formulated a plan to give comic opera on a scale commensurate with his productions of grand opera. He paid $1,500 a week to Lillian Russell and engaged the Lyceum Theater, London, for her debut, There was the little rift within the lute that by and by made all his music mute, and, ever widening, slowly silenced all. In his production of "The Queen of Brilliants" Abbey lost $50,000, and it was said that between this opera and "The Tzigana" the Lillian Russell company cost him $150,000. The figures are incredible, But, even if the venture was only haif so expensive as it was stated to be, there is no doubt that this speculation was the cover. It was the beginning of the end. However it came about, Lillian Russell not only toppled over the proud structure of the Metropolitan Opera Company, but brought its manager to irretrievable disaster.

massacre on the Solomon islands were brought up from the south seas by the ballot box itself the scene of rottenness Oceanic Steamship Company's mail steamer Monowa, which arrived at this port from Australia via the Sandwich Islands to-day. The victims of the bloodthirsty savages were members of a party of Austrians who had been taken to the islands by the Austrian man-of-war Albatross. The party was under the leadership of Henry Baron Foulton von Norbeck, an Austrian scientist, who has visited many islands in the south seas and had numerous exciting experiences with the natives. While traveling with an armed guard over the mountains of the island he was set upon by bushmen and slain, together with four others. During the desperate conflict which followed the assault many of the party were dangerously wounded. The killed are: HENRY, BARON FOULTON VON NOR-ficer, dangerously; Peter Ourcle, petty officer; Anton Covacevick, petty officer; Anton Lovric and Franz Sepcic, both seamen, slightly wounded; Johnny Paramta, a native, Baron's servant Nickel.

The Albatross was commissioned by the Austrian government to make a scientific exploration on Solomon islands. During the middle of last August a landing was made at a place called Titiri, on the north coast of Guadalcanar. From there a party consisting of Baron Foulton von Norbeck, Lieutenant Budik, Midshipman De Beaueral Jones, has resigned the secretaryship fort, twenty sailors, the Baron's two servof the Democratic State central committee, ants and two native guides, started out for the purpose of exploring a mountain in the interior of the island called the Lion's | anthems of Italy and Montenegro. After two days' marching Head. one midshipman, and seven sail-

The Baron and his servants, with the native guides, were in the lead, going up the hill, several natives being apparently near or mixed with the party. When up near the top they heard two shots fired in the neighborhood of the camp they had left and at the same time they saw a bushman chief standing on the top of a rise a little above them making some signs. As he appeared two shots were fired lower down the mountain from the direction of the camp. The shots seemed to be a signal the camp. for the chief to attack the party. Bushmen from a score of places at once rushed out and the Baron was struck on the neck with a tomahawk, while a crowd of bushmer attacked the rest of the party with clubs The native who had cut down the Baron Lieuten-

The sailors were well armed and the bushmen finally had to retreat to the woods, many of them wounded. The Baron was not the only one of the party badly hurt. At first it was thought he would recover, but he gradually sank and died in three hours. The sight when the party returned to camp was a bloody one. Midshipman Beaufort had been cut to death and three sailors and one native guide were dead. Six sailors and one guide had been wounded. One of the guides, John Paramata, fought bravely, though his hand had been serious-ly wounded. The rifles finally told on the natives and they withdrew. The news was sent to Captain Mauler, or the Albatross, and a relief party headed by First Lieutenant Bublai and consisting of the doctor and thirty sailors, was sent, and a safe return to the ship was made. After the injured men had aboard the Albatross Captain Mauler sailed for Cooktown and thence the Albatross will go to Sydney.

ORIENTAL ATROCITIES.

Butcheries and Cruelties in Philippine Islands and Formosa. VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 22.-The Empress of Japan, which has just arrived from the Orient, brings advices regarding the rebellion against the Spanish in the Philippine islands, confirming the previous reports that the Spaniards will likely have another war as serious as that in Cuba on her hands. Governor-general Blanco realizes that, with the present force, he is unable to quell the revolt and, consequently, is awaiting the arrival of reinforcements before striking a decisive blow. Meanwhile, the rebels are doing a great deal of damage to the property and murdering and robbing

By torture, the Spaniards have wrung many secrets from the prisoners. A triangular mark cut in the arm is the badge of members of the Revolutionary Society. The prison at Manila, which has earned for itself the title of 'black hole of Manila," is an old fortress. Prisoners are thrown into a dungeon, en-trance into which is gained by a hole in the roof. The only ventilation is through a barred opening underneath the platform floor, and at high tide this means of ventilation is totally closed, and large numbers of prisoners who did not die from suffocation were found to have torn each other in a dreadful manner in fits of insanity. Num-erous accusations of cowardice have been made against the Spanish. In a brush with the rebels they placed native troops in the van, and when these were dispersed, the Spanish fied. THE POPULIST TEST OF LOYALTY TO CANDIDATE BRYAN.

Editor Dunning, the Middle-Roader, Says in an Appeal to the People's Party.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE OF POPU-LISTS AT ATLANTA TO-DAY,

When Sensational Developments May Be Expected-Watson's Letter Likely to Be Made Public.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.-N. A. Dunning, the well-known Populist leader and editor, has issued an appeal to the Populists of the country, in which he defends Thomas E. Watson, asserting that "treason to Mr. Watson has been a test of loyalty to Mr. Bryan." The appeal, in part, follows: "In my opinion the time has come when the honor as well as the future existence of the Populist party demands that a vig-orous protest be made against the course now being pursued by those in charge of the present political campaign. After much hesitation and anxious waiting for some one else to take the lead in this matter, I have determined to assume both the re-sponsibility and whatever criticism such action may involve, and appeal to my brother Populists to at least consider carefully the real situation before going fur ther in this direction. In doing so I desire to state at the beginning in the most positive manner that I neither challenge nor impugn the motives of those who have hon-estly and conscientiously gone into this fusion movement, but to the contrary invite them to a careful reading of the propositions which I may advance. For those who have wilifully and treacherously led the party into its present unfortunate and preparty into its present unforturate and pre-carious position I have neither excuse nor palliation, but shall attempt to call down upon their heads the righteous indignation of an outraged and betrayed constituency. "I shall attempt, so far as my ability ex-tends, to rescue these thousands of honest Populists from the domination of manipulating leaders who are being made the un-willing victims of the deadly influence of political fusion. That a large per cent. of the rank and file of our party are opposed to fusion and its disintegrating results are becoming more and more pronounced as the day of election draws near. That they realize the danger which such a course threatens and are reluctant to assume the risks, is readily discovered by a quiet interview with ninety-nine out of every one hundred. And why should not this fear obtain? Why should they not hesitate to jeopardize the fruits of so much labor and privation?" privation?'

Mr. Dunning then reviews the history of the Populist party and the "Democratic conspiracy" to disrupt it. He calls attention to the betrayal of Watson at the St. Louis convention, where the Georgian was the choice of all true Populists for the presidential nomination. The appeal closes

"The facts are that not a single principle of Populsm is involved in this contest. The entire contention is to save the Democratic national organization and destroy Populism as the result. The Democratic managers do not ask for a fusion, but a virtual surrender of the Populist organ-ization and the destruction of our party by joining them in the election of Bryan In this effort they have been abiy seconded by the Populist national committee. As proof of this I refer to the letter of notification to Mr. Bryan by Senator Allen. In this he was told he need not accept any of the Populist doctrine or declare himself in accord with any part of the St. Louis p.atform; that his past record was enough to command the support of the Populist party. This letter voiced the real sentiment of these fusion conspirators and disclosed their treachery to the party they so un-worthily represented. Mr. Bryan received in person the notification committee of the Democratic party and also that of the socalled Sliver party, which never had an existence, but the despised Populists were too contaminating for personal contact, and he would consent to receive only a notification through the mail during the last days of the campaign. I could continue almost without limit to point out instances where we, as Populists, have been humiliated, betrayed and forced into unfair and unequivocal positions by the plottings and schemings of our national committee. Suffice it to say that through their actions alone the cam-paign has been forced into such a condition that the Populist party and its principles have been completely eliminated. We are no longer interested in the contest, since it has narrowed down to a light between the Democratic and Republican parties. There is not a single principle of Populism at stake, and each individual Populist must decide as to which of the two old parties he will give his support. Fusion for the single purposes of the state of the single purposes. single purpose of perpetuating the life of the national Democratic machine is all that remains of our national organization to-day. Is this the end for which we have so long and earnestly tolled? Must the result of all the labor, sacrifices and priva-tions we have endured cuiminate in the sup-port of a man who ignores and treats us with contempt? Have we suffered all these years to be at last swallowed up by the Democratic party? Will the Populists of the South, after all the infamous treatment they have received from the Democratic party, consent to trust them again? been abused, robbed of their manhood and olundered of their rights, and will they now lick the hands that surely will slay them? Will they now form an alliance with the Democratic party, and in so doing give the lie direct to all the charges they have ever brought against that party? I cannot

"With our organization in danger and our party divided into factions, our press threatened with annihilation and the entire propoganda of twenty years in peril, is it not time to call a halt, and, as calmly as possible, look over the situation? In my "We find ourselves in the grip of the fusion monster, with no time to place a straight Populist ticket in the field. The only recourse remaining is with our ballots. Our duty at the polls therefore becomes a serious question. We have neither party nor principles at stake in this election, and nor principles at stake in this election, and must, therefore, make a choice between the two old parties or remain at home. Fusion having eliminated the party I would support, and for the building up of which I have spent the best years of my life, I am compelled, if I exercise the right of franchise, to make a choice between the Democratic and Republican parties. In doing so I shall choose between a party that paid off two hundred and forty-one millions of public debt during its last adminislions of public debt during its last administration and the party which, during the past three years, has increased our public debt two hundred and sixty-two millions. I shall make the choice between the party that bought our bonds in the open market and paid them off and the party that sold our bonds at a ruinous rate of interest to a private syndicate and under cover of the darkness of night. I wish to influence no darkness of night. I wish to influence no one in his line of duty, but I earnestly ask my brother Populists throughout the United States to stand firm in their manhood and either remain at home or cast their ballots as they honestly think will be for the best interests of our party. Having nothing but the best interests of our party at heart, and hoping the dark clouds which row hoping the dark clouds and will ever hold, though unrecognized by legal enactments or the decrees of potentiates. Watson Again Says He Will Not Withdraw-Speech in Alabama. GADSDEN, Ala., Oct. 22.-Tom Watson made a speech here to-day, and during its delivery the platform fell, but no one was hurt. The feature of the Populist candidate's speech was his attack upon the Democrats in the South-especially in Georgia and Alabama-for not fusing with the Populists, whose offer in these two States, to Atchison Globe. take down half their electors had been refused with scorn and contempt.

consider that he was endangering the election of Bryan. Watson asked if there was any danger of McKinley's electors being chosen in Alabama, whereupon Kyle replied affirmatively. Watson said:

Kinley electors being chosen," continued Watson. "We have made propositions here in Alabama, but your party has not even considererd them. Therefore, if Bryan is defeated the fault will be with the Democrats and not with the Populists. Both the Democrats and Populists want Bryan, but without the 2,000,000 Populist votes Bryan has not a ghost of a chance."

State Populist Chairman Deans here authorized the proposition that "the Alabama Populists would pull down six of their electors if the Democrats would pull their electors if the Democrats would p down five.

In conclusion Watson reiterated his purpose not to withdraw, saying he would carry the banner which had been placed in his hands to glorious victory or honorable defeat. Watson left this afternoon for

ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

Populist Leaders May Give Out Water son's Letter To-Day. CHICAGO, Oct. 22.-Chairman Washburn, of the Western branch of the Populist national committee, left for Nashville this evening, where to-morrow he expects to meet Thomas E. Watson and National Committeeman Reed, of Georgia. Mr. Washburn held a long conference late this afternoon with Chairman Jones, of the Democratic national committee, in a final attempt to settle the dispute over fusion in Georgia. What the result of this confer-ence was Mr. Washburn absolutely refused to divulge. It is positively known, how-ever, that it was unsatisfactory to the Populist chairman. Interesting not to say sensational, developments are looked for at to-morrow's meeting of the Populist leaders at Nashville, and it is probable that as a result Mr. Watson's now famous letter of acceptance may soon find its way into print. Butler Has Not the Letter. ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 22.-In response to telegram of inquiry addressed to him concerning Mr. Watson's letter of acceptance, Chairman Marion Butler wires the Journal as follows: Telegram received.

WHY THEY DID NOT BOLT. Sound-Money Democrats of Florida Swayed by Local Rensons. Washington Special in Boston Transcript. Florida politics are somewhat misunderstood, and considerable confusion exists as to the real meaning of the returns of the recent election. A man who has been closely identified with the sound-money movement in that State has thus clearly outlined the course of events to your cor-respondent: "After Bryan and Sewall were nominated, the silver men became turbu-lent, and held a conference, at which they decided to demand of the State committee that it should come out solidly for Bryan and free silver. The sound-money forces met a peculiar situation. To fall to support Bryan and to withdraw from the party would have meant the Tillmanizing of the State. We have an element there well represented by Senator Tillman, of South Carolina. This element has long been thirsting for the control of the State, but in the past has been kept down by the conservative, intelligent classes. We saw, however, that if this element could put us in the position of bolters from the national convention, especially after we had agreed to the primaries to stand by the Chicago in the primaries to stand by the Chicago platform whatever it might be, it would have no difficulty in carrying the State not only for Bryan, but for a local ticket of its own make. Now, no Northern man can realize what it would have meant to turn Florida over to this gang. We have now a prosperous and progressive State, improving its educational advantages, extending its railroads, increasing its industries and attracting Northern capital more and more attracting Northern capital more and more every year. To turn the State government over to the Tilman wing of the party would have blighted the prosperity which seems now clearly coming our way, and so, after consultation, we decided to remain in the party, and control its organization for the sake of our local State government.

"We believed that the electoral vote of Florida would be cast for Bryan in any event, and the present outlook sustains that conclusion. Our ticket fell off about fifteen per cent, in the State election, and will experience another drop in the national conperience another drop in the national contest, especially since we have an Australian ballot, but not enough to take the State out of the Bryan column. Whether Florida will send a sound-money man to the United States Senate in place of Mr. Call is still an open question. This would clearly have come to pass but for the unfortunate form at Chicago. Since the national fight is being conducted on free-silver lines, Mr.

Call's case has been materially strength-ened, although his election is by no means assured." Labor Makes Value.

Syracuse Journal. The most exhaustive researches can only result in more firmly establishing the unique position of productive labor as the standard of all commercial value a position clouds which now hang so heavily over us may lift. I subscribe myself to all true mine and transport 23.20 grains of fine gold to the mint. It is productive labor that to the mint. It is productive labor that establishes the value, instead of gold and silver establishing the value of productive labor. So long as productive labor is content to mine 23.20 grains of fine gold at wages paid, that will be the value of a dollar. As to silver, productive labor is now satisfied to mine over 700 grains for the wages formerly paid to mine 371.25 grains, making it worth about half its former price. No legal enactment or demagogy, or sophistry, can change its present value so long as the fiat of productive labor remains as it is.

remains as it is. A Suggestion.
